Resources on East Timor

The 18-year long invasion, occupation and genocide by Indonesian military forces in East Timor have received little attention in the American media. To help people learn about the island country, and what they can do to support human rights and self-determination, the East Timor Action Network (ETAN) provides resources as listed below.

The East Timor Action Network/United States was formed after the November 12, 1991 massacre, when Indonesian soldiers murdered over 250 unarmed Timorese civilians in cold blood. We are a grass-roots, national network with many local groups. We organize events, lobby governments, and supply speakers and materials. Join us.
